

Welcome to the Washougal River Greenway

Washougal River Greenway consists of over 125 acres of contiguous greenway parcels, open water which includes several ponds and the Washougal River, and adjacent upland. The Greenway offers amenities including several small picnicking and seating areas, a 1.1 mile paved walking/biking trail, a primitive boat launch site, the new 370' bridge spanning the river, and Goot Park which has recently gone through its own improvements. Activities currently supported by the greenway include fishing, wildlife viewing, kayaking/canoeing, walking, swimming, biking, picnicking, and play activities in Goot Park.

The Washougal River Greenway provides habitat for wildlife and fish including Chinook, Chum, and Coho Salmon, as well as Steelhead and Cutthroat Trout. You may also see species such as deer, raccoon, blue heron, bald eagle, osprey, king fisher, red-winged flicker, goldfinch, Canada goose, grosbeak, woodpecker, Sharp-shinned Hawk, wood duck, and many other types of wildlife along the trail and in the water.

This new trail has helped connect our community by linking neighborhoods and the downtown core via a scenic path. This path provides an additional water source to the north and a continuous trail system from Goodwin Road (west of Camas) to Goot Park (east of Camas) while providing neighbors and visitors a chance to meet and visit along the way.
